TOP SELLING POINTS

Joe Cassidy built an Irish welcome on eighty Suisun Valley acres.

Joe arrived from County Clare in 1976 with tools on his belt and a contractor's patience. Bally Keal, baile na plus Keal, is place of farmsteads. The greeting on the property is Cead Mile Failte, one hundred thousand welcomes. The estate holds a winery, brewery, distillery, car museum, and gathering rooms on one 80-acre property. Zero Royale is the no-alcohol sparkling for that table, not a second-label Cabernet.

Alcohol removed. Same estate that farms 62 acres of Cabernet.

The official vineyard page plants 62 acres of Cabernet Sauvignon in Suisun Valley, organically, with biodiesel tractors, Fish Friendly Farming, and a 100,000-watt solar array. Zero Royale is not that Cabernet. It is the house no-alcohol sparkling, labeled California sparkling wine, alcohol removed. Put it on the list so the dry guest, the brunch table, and the fried-chicken plate get a real bottle instead of a soda.

JOE CASSIDY

County Clare · Suisun Valley · Cead Mile Failte

Joe arrived from County Clare in 1976 with a few tools on his belt. He delivered pizzas for an Irish cousin in San Francisco, then built a residential development firm in the Bay Area. The estate in Suisun Valley is the house he wanted guests to walk into: winery, brewery, distillery, and gathering rooms on eighty acres. The name is Gaelic. Bally from baile na, place of. Keal for villages or farmsteads. The greeting over the door is Cead Mile Failte. Zero Royale is the no-alcohol sparkling for that table, not a second-label Cabernet. The photograph on this page is Joe at the estate doors. Adrian Guerrero joined as winemaker and brewer in 2024. The mocktails on this page are the three original recipes from the September One Wine Market magazine.

ZERO ROYALE IN THE GLASS

The bottle is labeled California sparkling wine, Zero Royale, alcohol removed. The official shop lists it as Bally Keal Estate Non-Alcoholic Sparkling Wine. The house introduced Zero Royale as a beautifully balanced, alcohol-removed sparkling for celebration without the alcohol. Do not sell it as a wine with alcohol. Serve it well chilled, in a sparkling glass, with fried chicken or a toast. Open bottles want a stopper and a return to the ice.
